

Navigating Ethics & Boundaries as Peer Professionals

for Certified Peer Support Specialists

In this training, participants will be invited to learn about ethics and boundaries in behavioral healthcare through the lens of peer recovery support specialists. We'll revisit and define universal peer values, explore how our individual morals impact how we make decisions in ethical situations, and look at a tool that can help guide us to provide a framework for decision-making. Finally, participants will put everything together and work through several common ethical scenarios in order to put their skills into practice.

OBJECTIVES

- 1. Define at least three core peer values.
- 2. Utilize the Ethics and Boundaries Decision-Making Triangle tool.
- Articulate how ethics in peer support differ from ethics in other behavioral health professions.
